

Would you like to chase your dream job?

Becoming an EASD facilitator means you would like to become a gold standard equine program practitioner with: exemplary horsemanship skills, the desire to support others to live fulfilled lives and the experience of those already in the industry as your resource.

Become an EASD Facilitator

Training includes:

- Four days of face to face training.
- Setting up a successful equine business.
- Understanding insurance requirements.
- Knowing how and where to chase funding.
- Understanding how to attract potential clients.
- Marketing your new business.
- Staying within your scope of practice.
- Understanding the intended objectives of the EASD lesson plans and implementing a 10-12 week program.
- Understanding and practicing clean observations and open questioning.
- Practicing facilitation skills in a physically and emotionally safe environment.
- Being part of a supportive network while you grow your client group.

Train with the writer and developer of the Equine Assisted Skills Development (EASD) program.
